In 1990 Roger received a call to become the Senior Minister at West Croydon Baptist Church where he worked among asylum seekers as well as exploring culturally appropriate strategies to reach the unchurched. It was during this time he began his association with Spurgeon's College and was also awarded a Doctor of Ministry degree from Denver Seminary in the United States.

Having served as a Baptist Union Area Superintendent prior to the changes within the Union in 2002 he became Regional Minister/Team Leader of the Southern Counties Baptist Association. Roger joined the staff at Spurgeon's College in September 2007, teaching in the areas of mission, evangelism and pioneer ministry. Roger has always had an evangelistic emphasis in his ministry with the relationship between Christianity and contemporary culture a particular focus of his ministry and writing
